RUSSIA MASSING TROOPS IN SIBERIA

Fully Expects to Have Another Scrap With Japan Over Manchuria—Movement of Troops Made With as Much Quiet as Possible—Russia Getting Ready.

ST. PETERSBURG, by courier to the Frontier, Dec. 25.—The gradual gathering together of the choicest regiments in the Russian Army and their hurried movement toward the Far East, the scene of the world's last war, is becoming daily more and more open. The only excuse given for this unprecedented action is that the men are needed for service in Siberia.

Regiment after regiment of seasoned war veterans now being rushed to the East are not needed in Siberia, where Russia has no enemies. The tendency, too, to concentrate these troops along the Manchurian frontier is plainly evident, and gives the lie to the statement the regiments are needed in Siberia. This tendency is too plain to escape the notice of the various military attaches stationed in the Russian capital and nearly all of them are making long reports to their home governments.

Instead of assigning new officers to regiments being sent to the Far East, it is noted every regiment, recruited to its fullest war footing, is in charge of officers who saw service in the war with Japan, and more of these veteran officers are being recalled to the colors from various other posts and joining their regiments along the line of the Trans-Siberian Railway.

There is continued gossip in bureaucratic circles that hostilities between Russia and Japan are bound to come, though hardly before the Mikado and his Statesmen announce the annexation of Korea, which is confidently expected. Russian officers and officials admit they have a painful recollection of the last war, which was such a blow to their national pride that only another war, with a different termination can satisfy them. They point to the suddenness of the last war and declare Russia, fearing another strife in the Orient, does not intend to be caught napping. They admit they can never catch the Japanese napping, and want to be in the same position should hostilities occur.

Official denials from Tokio and even from St. Petersburg that hostilities are threatened are believed to be unworthy. It can safely be said Russian is momentarily anticipating a policy of aggression on the part of the Japanese in Eastern Siberia that will practically force her into another war.

The Czar's Minister believes, it is said, from information furnished by spies, that the Mikado is determined to acquire all the Asiatic mainland from the Pacific coast to Lake Baikal. This information is said to have come to the Muscovite officials in such an authentic manner they believe it implicitly. The Government's informant adds that Japan is not desirous of precipitating another war until she has partially recovered financially from the last, but that she will certainly strike before Russia completes the double-tracking of the Siberian Railway.

Russian officials speak as though they were confident another war was inevitable, and add that Russia will be found in much better shape, with her army and navy reorganized and overhauled.

In government circles it is doubted if Japan would be allowed by other European nations to continue her policy of aggression in the Far East, and official anxiety here is somewhat lessened by the conviction the Czar would have powerful allies if the Mikado forced him into another war.

The Czar's advisers are said to be convinced the Mikado will never be satisfied until he controls all of Manchuria. If such is the case, and the Mikado considers possession of the coast line necessary to remove a menace to Manchurian control, it is doubted if diplomatic argument will be strong enough to prevent such a "grab."

The assassination of Prince Ito, it is admitted, has called a halt to the negotiations under way for a new treaty between Russia and Japan. Ito was the only Japanese statesman the Russians trusted and the Mikado has sent no other representative to resume the negotiations.

MILK ORDINANCE NOT READY.

Supervisor Logan, who has been instrumental in the drafting of an ordinance for the regulation of dairies and the quality of milk along modern and sanitary lines, has announced that the measure will be ready for presentation and action by the City and County board at its next regular meeting. The milk ordinance is now in the hands of the Territorial Board of Agriculture, where the measure is receiving careful consideration.

President Waldron of the Merchants' Association has notified the new members of the committee of their appointments.

RECREATIONS

STANTON AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

The manager of the Park Theater has decided not to wait longer for Jupiter Play to dry up. He has taken the Hawaiian Opera House for Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights and will present the great Walter Stanton, premier mimique of the London theaters, and Miss Victoria Orville, in their own vaudeville acts supported by Miss Marie Kenny, the petite dancer and acrobat, the Milnotte Sisters and Doc Bryant, humorist and monologist, in a program that can not fail to amuse and entertain the audience.

After a wait of ten days for the weather to back up and be good enough for the real rooster to engage in a main with the imitation fellow, the manager of the Park engaged the Opera House, and Mr. Stanton will, with the assistance of several members of his company, introduce his game cock and his parrots and will appear with them in all the fuss and feathers the character warrants. Such an act has never been seen here, and it is said Mr. Stanton is the only person doing it. Miss Orville will sing, and Miss Kenny will appear for the first time before a Honolulu audience in character songs and dances. The California press has been unanimous in according her the highest testimonials for her painstaking efforts to please her audiences, and to say, incidentally, that she invariably succeeds. The Milnotte Sisters have something entirely new for their initial performance at this show place, and Doc Bryant, musical artist and mimic, will say funny things. Vienna's complete orchestra will furnish the music. Seats will be sold by the Bergstrom Music Co., at 50c, 35c, 25c, and 10c.

MISS BIGGART PLEASES.

The story of Adam Ede, as presented by Miss Mabelle Biggart, was a literary feast for those who attended at the Opera House last night.

Miss Biggart, in assuming the different characters of Elliot's great story, portrayed the different phases of emotion in a manner that showed that the parts have had great study and thought bestowed upon them.

At the conclusion of each and every part the audience showed its appreciation in applause.

DANCE TONIGHT.

The regular Wednesday night dance will be given as usual at the New Dance Hall on Kukui street. The dances there are growing in the favor of the dancers of Honolulu, and big crowds attend every affair of this nature. There is a general air of democracy that appeals to strangers, as they are always made welcome and are made to enjoy the dance as much as the kamipalans.

THE ART.

Two new films will be shown at the Art tonight and tomorrow night, and a fine selection of music will be rendered on the famous Simpson phonograph. This is a phonograph with a patent attachment that makes the music of the machine so clear that the hearer feels that he is in the presence of the singer. The two new films are "The Sacrifice" and "The Way to the Cross."

THE PARK THEATER.

Walter Stanton will introduce one of his game roosters at tonight's performance, showing how he trains cocks for fights and for his acts. The feature film will be "The Way to the Cross," adapted from "Quo Vadis." While the weather has affected the attendance somewhat at the Park, the class of entertainment has in no wise been lowered.

RECITAL.

The second recital to be given by Mrs. Bruce Mackall, Mrs. Grace S. Bannerman and Miss Margaret E. Clarke will be given Thursday, January 20, at the residence of Mrs. J. A. McCandless, on Nuuanu avenue. The Schubert and Schuman will be the subject matter of the recital. Tickets may be secured at the Bergstrom store.

BAND CONCERT TONIGHT.

The Hawaiian Band will give a concert at Ania Park this evening at half-past seven o'clock (weather permitting), as follows:
March—The Fairest of the Fair... Sousa
Overture—The Golden Wand... Laurendeau
Intermezzo—Curley... Powell
Selection—L'Ebre (by request)... Apollonio
Vocal—Hawaiian Songs... Ar. by Berger
Selection—The Newly Weds... Bratton
Intermezzo—The Flower Girl... Weinrich
March—Powhatan's Daughter... Sousa
The Star Spangled Banner.

CAN THIS BE TRUE?

"After all," queried the maiden fair, "what is marriage?"
"Marriage," replied the young matron, "is the process by which a woman deprives herself of an escort."

FOR the washing of blankets, lace curtains and fine laces; for the washing of dishes, cut-glass and costly bric-a-brac; for the toilet, nursery and bedroom, this excellent soap (Ivory) never fails.

And the woman who discards all the other soaps and uses Ivory in every department of the home has gone a long way toward making housework a pleasure and a pride.—The American Housekeeper.

SCULLY EXPLAINS

Inspector Scully, after hearing remarks that some of the scorching automobile drivers were not being prosecuted and that all were not being treated alike, said this morning: "I will never take a case into court unless I am absolutely certain of the fact that the speed limit was being exceeded. Unless a certain distance is measured off, and the machines timed there is no way of an officer telling the pace of the machine. Time and time again, people have said to me 'Look at that machine. Why it must be going sixty miles an hour.' Well, say I arrest any of those scorchers and they appear in court. What evidence have I to offer? To say that I thought they were going sixty miles an hour would be no good. The court would want clear-cut evidence of the pace of the machine and I would have nothing to prove my case."

"No discrimination whatsoever has been shown in the matter, and every man who drives his car at a higher rate of speed than is allowed in the city limits is going to be fined if I can get the time he does a mile in."

"Sheriff Jarrett sent out warnings to a number of auto owners some time ago and a decrease in the high rate of speed was at once noticed."

All are being treated alike and three defendants in the last bunch that was summoned did not appear in court because they could not be served as they were off the island.

BURNING ACCIDENT

Abraham Kawahou, a police officer, was badly burned yesterday afternoon at his home. It appears that he was heating some varnish in a jar from which he had not withdrawn the stopper.

After looking at the contents of the jar once or twice Kawahou finally let the varnish bremin on the stove for a half hour or so. Hearing an explosion he returned and found that the jar had burst, and that a fire had started in the kitchen. In his efforts to subdue the flames, Kawahou was severely burnt about the arms and body, and he had to be removed to the Queen's Hospital.

The unfortunate man as soon as he felt the pain of the burns rushed to a tub of water and plunged his arms into the liquid. He is reported to be doing well at the hospital and will soon be on duty again.
